

White Sox Repulsed By Yankee Defence

Mullen's Pinch Triple in Twelfth Ends Desperate Battle.

PECKINPAUGH LEADS
IN BIG VICTORY

New Yorkers Play Brilliant Game and Strengthen Hold on First Place.

By GRANTLAND RICE.

The heights belong only to those who can hold them.

Adopting this as their official slogan, the Yankees repulsed the smothering White Sox attack in the most brilliant ball game of the year, moving on their upward way three and a half games beyond the struggling field below.

For twelve innings the two leading flag contenders fought a pitched battle, desperate beyond measure; a battle that swung back and forth upon even terms until Charlie Mullen struck off a triple in the twelfth that drove across the two runs needed to carry the Yankees along the winning way. The result was 4 to 3.

Mullen's ringing wallop came at a moment when the home guard looked to be beaten back. The invaders had already crossed the walls in the twelfth, when Oscar Felsch made his fifth consecutive base hit, driving the game and galling Ray Schalk over with a run.

This run, with Death Valley Jim Scott pitching superbly, looked to have the general proportions of Gibraltar.

Yanks Were Not Through.

But the Yanks were not through.
They never are, and that is one reason they never occur the ten of the steeple, for a game ball club never took their feet.

Going back after that last tally, Lee Mazza outpitched a sharp run to Buck Weaver that rounded up the inning with "that earnest attitude in the chest. Gie-den sacrificed, and Nunamaker was up with three balls and two strikes called.
The next pitch was a trifle wild and Leslie G. walked.

"My God! Silk, that was over; the man is out; the man is out!" raved little Schalk, who had been one of the star features of the day. At this point Donovan called in George Mogridge and sent Charlie Mullen up to carry on the assault.

Mullen's reply was a line smash to left, a ball hit with such terrific force that as it struck the ground in front of Shane Collins, it bounded ten feet over the left fielder's head and then carried sharply off the fence. The Sox resisted in whacking Mozdridge with lusty force, but when the tall southpaw halted for the least trifle the wonderful Yankee defence formed about him and from first.

This second triumph over the hard fighting White Sox was so replete with features that many columns might be used to recount in full the brilliant sublimities of both sides. The Sox persisted in whacking Mozdridge with lusty force, but when the tall southpaw
halted for the least trifle the wonderful Yankee defence formed about him and
from first.

In the early part of the game the breaks of battle were against the White Sox, who with many chances to score were repeatedly held by the unbroken Yankee defence. In the fourth inning, for a shining example, Felsch singled, Weaver sacrificed, Collins walked and Mullen struck first on a high to right. The bases were covered with one out, and Shano Collins up.

Collins drove a sharp run to left, baker missed the ball, and in place of shooting for the plate took a chance on a double play over the accustomed route. He pegged straight to Gideon, who forced Jackson, and then got out. Felsch followed with a long three base hit, but there was no Sox runner on the path to score the winning run.

Only a shade back of Peckinpaugh in brilliancy was hard working Ray Schalk. This human dynamo worked the White Sox, who with many chances

CUBS SHUT OUT BRAVES; PACKARD GIVES ONE HIT

Errors Give Boston 4 Chances—Williams Robbed of Home Run. Chicago, July 7. Packard held Boston to one hit today, and Chicago won, 1 to 0, over Frank Allen and the Braves when Zeider and Williams bunched doubles in the eighth. Williams' hit would have been a home run but for the new error screen in right field. Four times errors gave Boston openings, but Packard stopped the Braves short in the pinches. The score follows:
